Patricia Urquiola – Design with the mixture of innovation and emotion

Cassina, a premium Italian furniture brand has been in existence for over 90 years and recently has launched its first showroom at Lyndhurst Terrace in Central, Hong Kong. This exciting project has brought an opportunity to the public to witness this excellent craftsmanship of this premium brand. Club Wheelock was very fortunate to personally meet one of the influential architects, Patricia Urquiola, who is also the art director of Cassina and witness the charisma of her designs. She has stood tall in this male-dominated industry, coming up with an exceptional artistic design.

Patricia Urquiola is one of the influential architects and designers. She attended the University of Architecture at Madrid Polytechnic and Milan Polytechnic, where she graduated with Achille Castiglioni and currently lives and works in Milan. After completing her studies, she became assistant lecturer in Milan and Paris, where she was responsible for the new product development office of De Padova, working with different design masters. During these periods, she was able to create many classic works, and she admits how lucky she was to work with several design masters at the early stage of her career. It played a great role to influence and inspire her future design perspectives and design potential.

Patricia Urquiola has received recognition from many designers and global artists due to her philosophy of executing the design. Some of the awards that she has won include Décor International Design Award, Paris Home Decoration Exhibition Award-Life Design Award, Cologne Design Award, and Chicago Athenaeum Best Design. More so, her work has been exposed in many renowned museums such as the MOMA in New York, the Victorian & Albert Museum in London and many more, making her known internationally.

Patricia's message for new designers' generation is to maintain enthusiasm and curiosity and look for a mentor to guide you into designing your personal style. After every launch, the Spanish designer always comes with a different surprise.

During her architecture studies, Patricia Urquiola thought macroscopically however her tutor Achille Castiglioni enthused continuously her to pay attention and appreciate the details of day to day life. Patricia hence merged intellectuality and rationality to come up with great functions combination that makes the work appear untouched yet reveals infinite creativity. Her furniture touches the design, comfort, function, life, and also the feel-good impression of the user. Patricia says, her motivation in supporting all her designs is improving our daily lives motivation not only in ergonomics, design aesthetics, and environmental impacts but more significantly in broadening spiritual satisfaction, horizon and inner pleasure.

The instructors vibrantly articulated their clarifications through the interesting stories to involve all the children in the story. This helped to improve the children's English expression, listening, and their understanding skills.
